Your body is beautifully designed by nature to help you process the unexpected distresses in your life. You can enjoy greater health by understanding your symptoms as important messages from your body.

Changes in organs and tissues are usually called "disease". Dr. Ryke Geerd Hamer, MD., discovered that these changes are actually meaningful biological programs designed by nature to assist us in resolving unexpected distresses. The psyche, a specific area in the brain, and the correlating tissue of an organ are simultaneously affected. Brain CT scans support Dr. Hamer's findings.

GNM STUDIES will help you connect your physical distresses with your emotional ones so that you can nurture your body while it functions as nature intended.
